Humanist Scotland PoIl

12/07/2018
Prepared on behalf of Humanist Society Scotland

Methodology

Fieldwork Dates

$5^{\text {th }}-10^{\text {th }}$ July 2018
Data Collection Method

The survey was conducted via online panel. Invitations to complete surveys were sent out to members of the panel. Differential response rates from different demographic groups were taken into account.

Population Sampled

All residents aged 18+ in Scotland.
Sample Size
1,002

Data Weighting

Data were weighted to the profile of all Scottish adults aged 18+. Data were weighted by age, sex, region, 2017 General Election vote and 2014 referendum vote. Targets for the weighted data were derived from Office of National Statistics data, the results of the 2017 UK General Election and the 2014 referendum result.

Margin of Error

Because only a sample of the full population was interviewed, all results are subject to margin of error, meaning that not all differences are statistically significant. For example, in a question where $50 \%$ (the worst case scenario as far as margin of error is concerned) gave a particular answer, with a sample of 1,002 it is $95 \%$ certain that the 'true' value will fall within the range of $3.1 \%$ from the sample result. Subsamples from the cross-breaks will be subject to higher margin of error, conclusions drawn from cross breaks with very small sub-samples should be treated with caution.

Question presentation

All data tables shown in full below, in order and wording put to respondents, including but not limited to all tables relating to published data and all relevant tables preceding them. Tables for demographic questions might not be included but these should be clear from the cross-breaks on published tables. In all questions where the responses are a list of parties, names or statements, these will typically have been displayed to respondents in a randomising order. The only questions which would not have had randomising responses would be those in which there was a natural order to maintain - e.g. a scale from "strongly agree" to "strongly disagree", a list of numbers from 0 to 10 or questions which had factual rather than opinionrelated answers such as demographic information. "Other", "Don't know" and "Refused" responses are not randomised.

Not all questions will have necessarily been asked to all respondents - this is because they may be follow-on questions from previous questions or only appropriate to certain demographic groups. Lower response counts should make clear where this has occurred

Data were analysed and weighted by Survation.

Table 49
Q49.in Scotand, pupils at all schools take part in some form of religious service during school hours. As things stand, parents can choose for their child to opt-out of such services, but the pupils themselves cannot
Do you think a parent opting a child out of a whole school activity of religious observance risks stigmatising that child amongst their peers?

Q50. Currently in Scotland there are two types of state funded schools: denominational schools that are run with ethos and observance of a particular religious denomination (e.g. Roman Catholic, Episcopal and Jewish) or non-denominational schools which require pupils to attend religious observance (including acts of worship) during the school year that reflects 'Scotiand's Christian heritage'.
The law does not allow for non-religious state schools where there would be no requirement for religious observance though pupils may learn about different religions in the classroom To what extent would you support or oppose the establishment of non-religious community schools, open to children of all faiths and none, that do not require pupils to take part in any acts of religious observance?

| 53 | 50 | Q50. Currently in Scotland there are two types of state funded schools: denominational schools that are run with ethos and observance of a particular religious denomination (e.g. Roman Catholic, Episcopal and Jewish) or non-denominational schools which require pupils to attend religious observance (including acts of worship) during the school year that reflects 'Scotland's Christian heritage'. The law does not allow for non-religious state schools where there would be no requirement for religious observance though pupils may learn about different religions in the classroom. To what extent would you support or oppose the establishment of non-religious community schools, open to children of all faiths and none, that do not require pupils to take part in any acts of religious observance? | Base: All Respondents | 1002 |
| 54 | 51 | Q51 .For the following questions, by 'pastoral support', we mean professional emotional and moral support provided at difficult times.  Currently hospitals, prisons and universities have religious chaplains working at them to provide pastoral support to patients, prisoners, students, staff and their families.  Have you ever personally made use of the support offered by chaplains in a hospital, prison or university? | Base: All Respondents | 1002 |
| 55 | 52 | Q52 .Some chaplains only offer their support to people who belong to the same religion as them. Some prisons, hospitals and universities are now introducing trained non-religious pastoral support providers, who can give the same help to non-religious people as these chaplains give to religious people.  To what extent do you agree or disagree with the following statement?  'Institutions such as prisons, hospitals and universities which have chaplains should also have dedicated non-religious pastoral support.'  To what extent would you support or oppose the establishment of non-religious community schools, open to children of all faiths and none, that do not require pupils to take part | Base: All Respondents | 1002 |
